

Brewing and Malting Barley Research Institute (BMBRI)- Membership Categories

Membership Level	Eligible Parties	Associated BMBRI Participation and resulting Services and Benefits	Related Fees
Full Membership Option A: Individual Company Membership	Domestic and international malting and brewing companies with an interest in Canadian malting barley	Full participation for the member company in <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • All Board of Directors Meetings • All Technical Committee Meetings • Direction of Research Projects by Technical Committee members • Collaborative and Plant-scale Tests at member’s facilities And <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Receive all associated services and benefits as per attached membership value list 	BMBRI malting and brewing company full membership fees are prorated to the malting or brewing production and capacity of each member. The detailed fee schedule is available on request from BMBRI.
Full Membership Option B: Group Company Membership	Multidivisional domestic and international malting and brewing groups with an interest in Canadian malting barley	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • One member nominated to the Board of Directors • Membership on the Technical Committee from each division • Direction of Research Projects by Technical Committee members • Collaborative and Plant-scale testing at any of the member’s divisions • Receive all associated services and benefits as per attached membership value list 	Group Membership fees are those for the named primary Board member plus a premium for the Group Membership The level of premium is agreed between BMBRI and the specific member The minimum premium for Group Membership is 20% above the individual membership

BMBRI Membership Categories and Benefits

Associate Membership Note: Malting and brewing companies with an interest in Canadian malting barley and malt are not eligible for associated membership. They should apply for full membership	Stakeholder organizations or groups in the Canadian value chain representing researchers , breeders, producers, seed distributors, selecting companies, malting barley marketing companies and agencies, federal or provincial agencies with an interest in development of Canadian malting barley Other malting and brewing industry representative associations	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Participation in all BMBRI members’ open Technical Committee discussions and agenda items • Receive summary information from BMBRI Collaborative and Plant-scale tests , with limitations on distribution • Receive summary information and reports of outcomes from BMBRI funded research projects • Receive all BMBRI crop or technical reports as approved by the Board or BMBRI management • Direct access to BMBRI management and members for information and discussions on areas of mutual interest • Profile as an Associate Member on BMBRI’s website and official correspondence • Other general benefits as described in attached membership value list 	For discussion with BMBRI Management Min of $1000 to Max of $5,000 depending on the size of the represented group or organization and the degree of participation or service needed from the membership
---	---	--	---